

HOME MISSIONARY SOCIETY MEETING

The Home Missionary society of the First M. E. church met Thursday afternoon at "Cactilene," the Central avenue home of Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Jones. Over 100 were gathered in and about a long grape pergola comfortably carpeted in rugs and roofed in canvas, where tiny new grape leaves gladdened the eyes with green and breezes sweet with orange blossoms stirred a refreshing coolness.

Mrs. Clyde Gandy opened the meeting, leading the singing of a hymn. Mrs. Townsend read Isaiah XLIV, concluding the Scripture with the idol worship she had seen on her recent trip to Japan. Mrs. Culver led in prayer.

The business meeting was presided over by the president, Mrs. R. H. Kipp. It was decided that the Home and Foreign Missionary societies should meet next year but once a month, but with morning and afternoon sessions, and a dinner to be served both societies.

After the business was dispatched, Mrs. Becker directed a program. Readings were given by Mrs. Culver and Mrs. McClister; an incident of her voyage to Japan was related by Mrs.

Rogers, and Little Eleanor Stahlberg sang two songs. Dr. Staveland gave a talk making an appeal for still more workers for the foreign mission, and most of those present were soon on their feet volunteering. The meeting ended with prayer by Dr. Staveland. Punch and cake were served by the hostess, Mrs. Jones.

SUNRISE EASTER SERVICE PLANNED

Following a beautiful custom which was set last year when the service attracted hundreds of people, the churches of the city will hold a sunrise Easter service at Papago park next Sunday morning. The service will start at 5:45 o'clock, and plans are being laid to make it as impressive and inspiring a ceremony as Phoenix has ever seen.

The ministers of the city will unite in preparing the program, and the combined choirs of the city will sing. A chief part of the service will be the congregational singing, which is being designed to bring out the full significance of the day.

CLEAR MAN CHARGED WITH MANSLAUGHTER

Alga V. King of Glendale yesterday was found not guilty by a jury in the superior court on a charge of manslaughter and was ordered discharged by Judge A. S. Gibbons. The trial began in the superior court on Thursday afternoon and went to the jury about 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon. A few minutes after the jury retired it returned with the verdict.

The charge against King followed the death of A. M. Dement in Glendale from the effects of a blow King was alleged to have struck him on the head with a shovel, January 3. Dement died two days later. According to the testimony, the two men had quarreled over the placing of a line fence on some disputed land to which each claimed title. King said he struck the blow in self defense because he thought Dement was about to attack him with a gun.

W. W. LAWTON CHOSEN C. OF C. PRESIDENT

Wright W. Lawton, prominent broker, business man and civic worker, was elected president of the reorganized chamber of commerce at the first meeting of the new board of directors yesterday. The election took place during a luncheon at the Y. M. C. A., and marked the beginning of the work of the chamber of commerce for a greater and better Phoenix.

The other officers of the chamber of commerce as elected yesterday are: Arthur T. Esgate, cashier of the Valley bank, first vice president; Wallace Burton, manager of the Berryhill company, second vice president; W. H. Thomson, vice president of the Phoenix National bank, treasurer, and Guy P. Nevitt, counsel.

The election of officers followed the election of 21 members of the board of directors Friday evening, and represents the choice of practically the entire membership of that organization. The new board of directors and the officers will meet at the chamber of commerce at 4:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon to consider committee appointments and whatever other business may come before them. Among the committees to be appointed are budget, finance or auditing, and a committee on the personnel of committees. A permanent chairman of the forum committee also is to be selected.

AUTOMOBILE CHASE ENDS IN CAPTURE

After an exciting automobile chase down alleys and up cross streets in the northeastern part of the city yesterday morning, Deputy Sheriff James Troutman and Ernest Smith finally succeeded in placing Jack Crawford under arrest. Crawford is wanted in Yuma, the officers said, on a charge of the theft of the Oakland car he was driving when arrested. He is being held in the county jail for Yuma officials.

According to officers, Crawford on Friday arranged to sell the car to a Phoenix man for $400, and after collecting $18 of the price left the car with the prospective purchaser. The latter called up the sheriff's office after Crawford left, officers said, to see if the car was stolen property. He was told to call the sheriff's office when Crawford returned. Yesterday morning Crawford returned, and according to officers got in the car and drove away before they could reach the place. They trailed the car and after losing it two or three times finally overtook Crawford at McDowell road and Fourteenth street and arrested him.

PLEADS NOT GUILTY TO LIQUOR CHARGE

W. P. Hart yesterday pleaded not guilty to a charge of transporting intoxicating liquor and was released under a bond of $1000 for examination Wednesday afternoon.

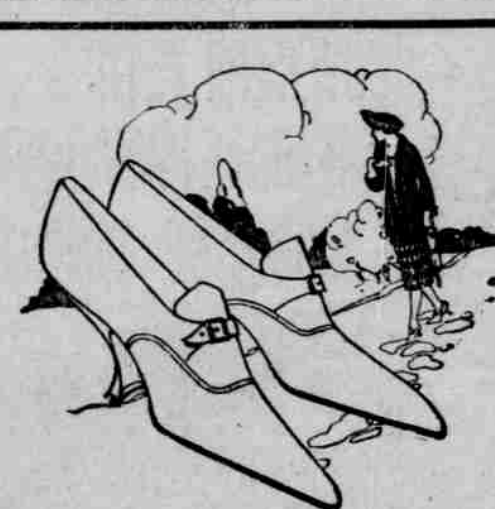

Hart was arrested Friday night in Tempe by Night Marshall Coleman on a charge of speeding. Hart's companion jumped from the car and made his escape. Upon searching the car, Constable J. H. Woods and Marshall Coleman found five cases of tequila in the tonneau of the new Studebaker Six. Hart was brought to the county jail and the car confiscated. Upon examining the car yesterday morning, officers found a false bottom under the rear floor which concealed seven cases of tequila, making 12 in all.

Hart, according to officers, said he drove to Columbus, New Mexico, with the man who escaped, where the latter secured the tequila, and then started back to Phoenix last Wednesday. Hart said he did not know where his passenger was taking the tequila, officers said, and told them the load was worth about $2,000.

BOY SCOUTS ENJOY OVERNIGHT OUTING

The Boy Scouts and the agriculture class of the Madison school went on an overnight scout hike above Granite Reef dam Friday night. The boys with their scoutmaster and teacher, Samuel J. Holsinger, left the school house at 5 o'clock and motored to the camping site. After cooking their meal over an open fire, an hour was spent in wrestling and other games. At 9 o'clock, with a bright moon overhead, some of the boys had a good swim. They then gathered about a crackling bonfire and told stories until 10 o'clock, when all turned in, sleeping out on the river sand.

The following morning rafts were constructed from logs and the boys enjoyed a "boat ride." Several catfish were caught, but due to the muddy water few fish were biting. Seventeen boys went on the trip and all expressed themselves as having a "real time." The troop meets weekly at the school house and take a "hike" twice a month.

"MARY, Mary, sweet and airy,
"Why are your cheeks so red?"
"They get that way 'cause every day
"I eat some 'Barker's Bread!"

MARY was a maid as neat as she was sweet. She kept her dollies and her shells all in a pretty row. Most Marys are sweet and neat—aren't they? And sincere—too. They mean just what they say. "B-B"

MAYBE that's why Mary is "such a grand old dame." "B-B"

AND "Barker's" is a name that has lots of friends, too. You would be surprised if you knew how many people in Phoenix buy bread by name—they insist on getting "Barker's." "B-B"

AND you can always get fresh Barker's Bread at your grocer's or direct from the Bakery—the price is ten cents everywhere. Try this unusually good bread—it's made in "Plain White," "Raisin," and "Health" Bread.
